

New Jersey has enacted one of the strongest Do Not Call Lists in the country after an outcry from all New Jersey Residents. The success of this program is proof that people do not want unsolicited calls to their home. There are many other ways for corporations to reach their audience without invading the home with unwanted calls.